

SPRING 2024 COURSE

ENGR 103:

ENGINEERING IN PUBLIC SERVICE

1-CREDIT COURSE (CRN 16459)
THURSDAYS • 4:30 PM - 5:20 PM • WALC 1121

Open to all students in the College of Engineering

There is a great need for technical know-how within local government, federal government, and government agencies. This course will introduce a wide range of career opportunities for engineers within the public sector, while engaging with guest speakers on interesting topics. Students will build their network and learn about opportunities to develop skills for successful careers impacting U.S. policy. This course will be the gateway for a new certificate program in Innovation and Public Service to be launched in Fall 2024. Students taking this course will have earned credit toward the new certificate program.
